

Terms of Service for TwentyThree™ Enterprise

TwentyThree Enterprise is a hosted software-as-a-service tool used for managing and distributing online video and webinars.

TwentyThree™ Enterprise (“the Service”) is developed and maintained by TwentyThree ApS (“TwentyThree”). By using the Service, any user or representative of the Client organization (“Client”, also referred to as “you”) agrees to be bound by the following terms and conditions (“Terms of Service”). Any new features or tools added to the Service shall also be subject to the Terms of Service.

The Client’s account and content is controlled by individuals (“Users”) acting on behalf of the Client. Users have personal user accounts and can log in to the Service administration panel using a username and password. Some Users may have administrative permissions. Any party accessing sites without a user account is termed a “Visitor”.

“Content” includes, but is not limited to, data, text, information, screen names, graphics, photos, profiles, audio, video, links, photos, comments, customizations, HTML and CSS posted by the Client, the User or the Visitor.

1. Using TwentyThree

1.1. In order to use the Service, you must create a user account with the administrative permissions. You can create User accounts for the Service and share its administrative privileges across the accounts created. User profiles are unique and consist of at least a user name, an encrypted password and an e-mail address. You are allowed to remove or disable the User’s accounts at any point in time and you are responsible for the creation of and/or amendments to the User’s profiles.

1.2. TwentyThree disclaims any liability resulting from the Content posted on and activity occurring on your sites and under your account. You are also solely responsible for the content posted by others, including but not limited to Users and Visitors.

2. Prices and Payment

2.1. The cost of the Service is according to the current price list. The cost of the Service includes full product capabilities and all upgrades within the chosen price plan. The cost is non-refundable.

2.2. The Service is billed yearly in advance. Terms of payment are 30 days from the day the invoice is issued. Failure to pay will ultimately result in the termination of your account and the Service. TwentyThree reserves the right to limit access to the administrative panel or to the entire Service when outstanding invoices are overdue. After the Service is terminated, you will no longer have access to any content, including original video files and other data. TwentyThree does not accept any liability for loss resulting from termination of your account. Termination of the account does not release you from the due payment obligation.

2.3. It is your responsibility to provide the correct and truthful contact and billing information, including Organization name and address along with a full contact name, e-mail address and direct phone number. If you are based in the EU, billing information also includes the organization’s VAT number whenever applicable. TwentyThree disclaims any liability resulting from you providing TwentyThree with the incorrect data.

3. Cancellation and Termination

3.1. The Service can be terminated in writing at the end of any subscription cycle. However, the Agreement can not be terminated for the first 12 months of its duration.

3.2. TwentyThree reserves the right to modify and improve the product features, design and/or functionality of the Service for any reason and without notice.

3.3. TwentyThree reserves the right to discontinue the service. You will be informed at least 6 months in advance in such an instance. In addition, TwentyThree reserves the right to transfer the Service wholly or in part with all the Content, Users and rights to the third party.

4. Sharing Content Provisions and Liabilities

4.1. You may upload your own material to the account and will by default give the Users of the sites access to the Content. You can limit the Visitors’ access to view and Users’ access to work with such Content.

4.2. You can at any point choose to edit or delete the information and material that you, Users and Visitors have uploaded.

4.3. TwentyThree claims no intellectual property rights over the Content. The Client remains the owner of the account, Content and materials uploaded. However, by setting the Content to be shared publicly, you agree to allow others to view and share the Content.

4.4. You must ensure that the Content’s authors consent to making the material accessible for viewing through your sites. People present in the Content must consent to making the material accessible for viewing through your site. This applies to all Content, whether uploaded by Users or Visitors. TwentyThree has no liability for the hosted material and shall not perform any clearing of rights.

4.5. You are responsible for controlling access to the Content through the administrative panel of TwentyThree.

4.6. TwentyThree is entitled to use the Client and the way the Client uses the Service as a reference in public communication unless otherwise directed in writing.

5. Code of Conduct

5.1. You may not use the Service for illegal purposes.
